Dear Senator Casey:

Thank you for supporting adult education and programs like the Greater Pittsburgh Literacy Council.

I came back to school because I was tired of not doing anything with my life. I figured I couldn't hang in the streets all day with my friends. I needed to do something with my life so I came back to school, plus I couldn't let my little brother get his diploma before I get a G.E.D.

I want to do something with my life and not be categorized as a "thug" for the rest of it. I also want to further my education and get a good job. I also would like to set a better example for my little brother and sister so they won't go down the wrong path. Overall, I came back to school to better my life so I can move forward instead of being stuck in the same place I been at for a year and a half.

When I get my GED I plan on going to technical school to be a registered nurse because I want to help people and they get paid good.

Politicians should increase funding because programs like these help people out in a big way. They help people get a second chance to get an education. I'm sure without programs like these there would be a lot more poverty. So that's why I think politicians should raise funding.

Thank you again for supporting and funding adult education.

Sincerely,

GED Student
